

Cookie Policy

EFG Harris Allday, an investment management division of EFG Private Bank Limited (Park House, 116 Park Street, London, W1K 6AP, United Kingdom, Phone +44 20 7491 9111) (“we”) uses cookies in order to facilitate the navigation experience on its website (the “Website”). The present Policy aims at providing you with clear and exhaustive information on what a cookie is, what types of cookies we use and how you can activate or deactivate the use of these cookies.

1. What is a cookie?

Cookies are information packages sent by a website to your internet browser, stored on your computer and checked by the server on each subsequent visit to the Website. The term “cookies” is used broadly in the present document, to include other similar tracking technologies as well, that may store information on your computer. The term “computer” refers indifferently to your computer per se, your tablet or mobile phone and any other electronic device used by you for accessing the Website.

2. Why do we use them?

We use cookies on the Website for the following purposes: (a) assisting you in your navigation; and (b) analysing your use of our website.

We use strictly necessary cookies

3. What kind of information can be stored in a cookie?

The information stored by the cookies on your computer may relate to the type of browser you used; your IP address; your location and the selected language; date and time of the visit to the Website. Cookies may therefore contain personal data. Where we use cookies collecting personal data, such collection is also covered by our Website Privacy Notification which is accessible at www.efgha.com.

4. Cookies present on our Website

We use on the Website strictly necessary (functional/ operational and technical) cookies and statistics cookies.

Strictly necessary cookies are of key importance to the proper functioning of the Website, they allow you to navigate and use its functions, including access to safe areas. Without these cookies, an efficient functioning of the Website cannot be ensured.

Our website may from time to time contain links to third-party websites. If you follow a link to such third-party websites, we recommend that you consult their policies on privacy, cookies and management procedures, as they are not verified by us: we have no control over these third-party cookies.

5. How to manage cookies

Cookies are saved on your computer, after you have been notified and have consented to them, except where strictly necessary cookies are used -in that case no explicit consent is required -. You have a wide discretion to accept, control or/ and delete cookies. You have the right to withdraw at any time your consent to the use of cookies (meaning the statistics cookies) apart from the strictly necessary ones (functional/ operational and technical cookies), for which consent is not required. The functioning of the Website will not be significantly affected if you deactivate the use of the non-strictly necessary cookies in this Website. However, difficulties may arise in relation to your navigation on the Website and some of its functions may not be available. You may find more information about the deactivation of cookies or the adaptation of the cookies' preferences in respect of the browser that you use in the following list:
